Campground changes for local area

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Members of the Elk Point Elks Lodge were busy at their Wilderness Park campground on the west side of Kehewin Lake on Sunday, clearing fallen trees and turning a former wood storage area into another campsite.

They're anticipating increased business at their 11-site facility this year, due to the closure of the 35-site provincial campground across the lake, one of 19 provincial camping areas that will experience changes this season, according to a Government of Alberta press release.

If that closure also includes shutting off access to the boat launch, however, there could be a considerable decrease in boat traffic on Kehewin Lake, as dropping lake levels have rendered the launch adjacent to the Wilderness Park challenging for all but the smallest boats.

Kehewin is one of four "low-use campgrounds" to be closed, along with Coal Lake South, located south of Edmonton; Raven, southwest of Red Deer; and Southview, south of Grand Prairie.

Whitney Lake campground and Ironwood Lake campground, located in the Lakeland-Provincial Park and Recreation Area east of Lac La Biche, will be converted to day-use-only areas, along with Lawrence Lake and Chain Lakes, both near Athabasca.

When Whitney Lakes Provincial Park first opened in the 1980s, the beach and surrounding area at Whitney Lake was a day use area, although it had been used for camping for many years previous to the creation of the park. Area residents protested the absence of overnight camping, and were successful at having it reinstated in 1988.

An Edmonton Journal story last Thursday mentioned reduced hours and services at several other parks, one of them Stoney Lake, but County of St. Paul campground spokesman Danny Weinmeier assures that "this is not our Stoney Lake. Ours is opening a week earlier than usual, and the phone there has been busy all (May 3) morning with people calling in for reservations."

Council approves 2009 financial statement

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Chartered accountant Barb McCarthy presented Elk Point town council with the town's 2009 consolidated financial statement last Monday night, and because it is in a new format this year, included in her presentation a breakdown of the 2008 figures in the new format for comparison purposes.

Copies of the statement were provided to Mayor Parrish Tung and council ahead of time so they would have an opportunity to go over the figures and make notes of any questions they wished to ask about it.

The statement showed increases in both net financial assets and non-financial assets over the 2008 figures, and an increase in revenues over expenses of $87,934 for 2009, as compared to a shortfall of $6,046 the previous year. Government transfers for capital projects added over $1 million, while contributions from local boards and fundraising and donations for capital added approximately $115,000 for a total excess of revenues over expenses of $1,212,385, as compared to $368,117 the previous year.

The statement noted that slightly more than $1.26 million in funding from various grant programs, organizations and individuals remained unspent at the end of 2009, with most of that earmarked for projects scheduled for completion in 2010.

The town's debenture debt dropped from $243,409 in 2008 to $167,187 in 2009, and interest paid on long-term debt dropped from $29,247 to $21,148.

Council later moved to approve the 2009 financial statement.

EDC refocusing efforts

Economic Development Committee chairman Don Schultz visited council to report that the EDC is refocusing its efforts by promoting Elk Point, as the committee feel the community has a lot to offer. The committee would like to know how many residential and commercial lots are available, and how the town would like to market them. Schultz indicated the main push is for residential lots. The EDC also feels that derelict buildings need to be cleaned up, and signage needs to be improved, especially for the Arts and Leisure Centre, which some people have difficulty finding.

Economic development coordinator Bob Bezpalko also emphasized that the main promotional goal is to make lots available for sale and for investors to purchase the residential land and develop lots.

Contraband tobacco seized by RCMP

By Cst. John Spaans
Elk Point RCMP Detachment

On April 27, 2010 Elk Point RCMP executed a judicially authorized search warrant at a residence in Elk Point after receiving information that the homeowner was in possession of contraband tobacco.

During the search, an estimated 11,000 cigarettes and cigarillos were seized. It is alleged that the homeowner smuggled these items into Alberta from another province. Charges are currently pending and the suspect faces charges included in the Criminal Code, Excise Act and Tobacco Tax Act.

This matter remains under investigation.

Fatal collision

On April 20 at 5:30 p.m., Elk Point RCMP, Fire and EMS responded to a single vehicle rollover on Highway 897 on the Frog Lake First Nations. Emergency services attended the scene and found that the one occupant of the vehicle had been ejected from the vehicle during the collision. The 24-year-old Frog Lake male was pronounced dead at the scene. Family members have been notified and the RCMP will not be releasing the deceased's name at this time. The cause of the collision is still under investigation. Alcohol is not believed to have played a role.

Intoxicated youths

During the early evening and into the night of April 16, Elk Point RCMP receive complaints regarding intoxicated youths. As a result of these complaints, RCMP located two grossly intoxicated females who were taking part in a dance at a local school. Both of the females were delivered to parents and issued violation tickets under the Gaming and Liquor Act for minors consuming alcohol.

Suspicious male

On April 19 at approximately 10 p.m., Elk Point RCMP received a complaint of a suspicious person in front of a residence in Elk Point. The complainant found the suspicious male sitting in the passenger seat of his vehicle drinking alcohol. Members attended the scene, but the suspect male was gone. It was determined that nothing was missing from the vehicle. The suspect is described as being a native male wearing a white hooded sweatshirt.

Stolen TV

On April 20 a complaint was received regarding a stolen TV in Frog Lake. It was determined that the TV went missing on April 17. The TV was leased from Easy Home, who do not cover stolen items through their insurance. Two suspects have been identified in the matter and investigation continues.

Break and enter

On April 20, Elk Point RCMP received a complaint of three separate break and enters in Elk Point. The locations effected were the tourist information booth, the Elk Point Visitor Information Eco Centre and the snowmobile cabin located on the south end of town. The structures suffered from damage to doors and windows. Investigation into this matter is ongoing. Elk Point RCMP are seeking assistance from anyone who witnessed suspicious activity in the area at any time during the week.

Impaired driving

During the week of April 22 to 28, Elk Point RCMP arrested three impaired drivers and issued one 24-hour suspension. The first impaired driver was caught on April 23 at 9:50 p.m. A1987 Ford Crown Victoria was observed driving on Twp. Rd. 562A south of Fishing Lake with headlights that were turning off and on. The vehicle drove onto a side road where a traffic stop was conducted. The 39-year-old male driver, a Fishing Lake resident, was found to be grossly intoxicated. He was arrested and brought to the Elk Point Detachment where his blood alcohol level was found to be twice the legal limit. The male was charged with impaired driving as well as a handful of provincial violations including operating an uninsured motor vehicle on the highway.

The second impaired driver was located on April 24 at 2:42 a.m. in Fishing Lake. The 24-year-old female driver was stopped after RCMP was told that she was driving around the settlement while intoxicated. The Onion Lake resident showed signs of impairment and was arrested for impaired driving. Breath tests indicated a blood alcohol level close to twice the legal limit. The female driver was charged with impaired driving.

The third impaired driving charge came on April 25 at approximately 10 p.m. Elk Point RCMP were conducting a routine Checkstop at the intersection of Twp. Rd. 562A and Hwy. 897 in Frog Lake when a 32-year-old Frog Lake male was found to be driving while under the influence of alcohol. The male was arrested and returned to the Elk Point Detachment where his blood alcohol was found to be over twice the legal limit of 80 mg per cent. The male driver was charged with impaired driving and driving while suspended.

Pointing a firearm

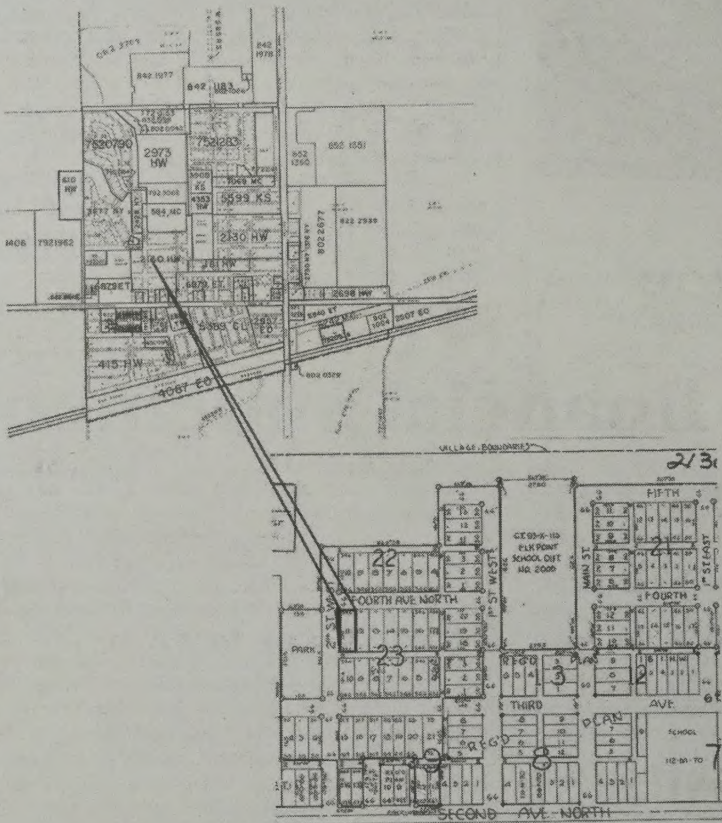

On April 22 at 10 a.m., Elk Point RCMP responded to a complaint in Frog Lake involving a firearm. The complainant alleged that a male entered her house and held a gun to her head and threatened her. The male left the residence but was found shortly after at a nearby residence. The male was taken into custody after a brief struggle with members. The 28-year-old Onion Lake male has been charged with multiple criminal offenses including pointing a firearm, assault with a weapon and resisting arrests. The suspect was known to the victim. No one was injured during this occurrence.

The Stoney Lake mentioned in that story is located northwest of Peace River.

"We understand that some Albertans will be disappointed with these reductions, but this will help us to allocate resources to maintain the highest possible level of service throughout our provincial parks system," says Cindy Ady, Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation, in the press release. She further states that the government is open to proposals from "municipalities, private operators or non-profit organizations to operate the sites we've identified for closure."

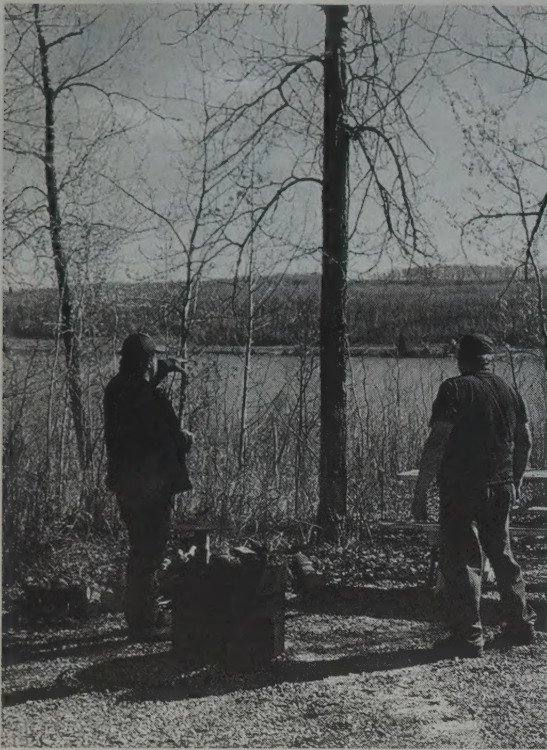

The County of St. Paul had been approached about taking over the operations of the Kehewin site, but at the April 20 council meeting, council decided it wasn't the county's responsibility to operate the site.

The Elks will be back at the Wilderness Park next weekend to finish their preparations for the season and install a children's playground near the beach, in readiness for the May 14 opening date.

Future improvements planned for the park, which celebrates its 30th anniversary this season, include the construction of a viewing platform that would be a smaller version of the deck built by the Town of Elk Point at their riverside campground.

The town's riverside campground and the Elk Point Recreation Park, with 17 tree-lined sites near the golf course, ball diamonds and soccer fields, will also help to fill the growing need for campsites in the area.

Gentlemen, start your ducks!

By VICKI BROOKER

With their successful mini trade show behind them, Elk Point Water Spray Park Committee is moving right ahead to their next fundraiser, the Great Elk Point Duck Race.

"It's something other communities have done, but most of them have manageable creeks," said committee member Valerie Lazicki. "We have the North Saskatchewan River."

That's not your average duck pond, but the committee is confident that once the tubs filled with numbered ducks are tipped into the river near Elk Point's Riverside Campsite viewing platform on Father's Day, June 20, the crew downstream will be able to net the first arrivals and determine the winners, and later to retrieve the rest of the 1,000 bouncy little bathtub toys before they swim off to Saskatchewan. "Glen Ockerman has volunteered his boat, his services and his family to help, and Fish and Wildlife will be bringing their boat, too," Lazicki said.

The committee is selling 1,000 tickets at various locations in Elk Point, and the $20 purchase price will qualify for prizes of $2,000, $1,000, and $250 for the first three ducks to finish, along with 15 $50 prizes. "The odds are pretty good," Lazicki said, "and we're fully expecting to sell out." The tickets are numbered, and a pink, yellow or green duck bearing that same number will be part of the flock set afloat that afternoon.

The Duck Race is part of an event that will include a concession, kids' games, face painting, music and fun for the whole family, Lazicki said. "It's a good day to bring fathers down to the river park, and the tickets are a great Mother's Day or Father's Day gift. Then you can bring them down to see their duck race."

Shamrock Valley Enterprises has volunteered the use of their parking lot for the occasion, and the Elks van will shuttle visitors from there to the park, "unless you want to walk down. This will keep the park clear for the little ones to run around."

The trade fair, held April 24, netted over $630 for the spray park, and "it was nice to see all the local people out with their businesses and their new product lines. I hope the vendors drummed up a little more business and met some new customers."

Promotion gets harder

Those who promote tourism in the Elk Point area have been dealt a nasty blow by the province.

First, the walleye fishing draw that brought a good number of enthusiasts to Kehewin Lake last summer was discontinued, and now, the parks department has seen fit to close the 'low use' campsite along Highway 41, reducing the campsites available at that lake from 46 to 11.

The parks department has also turned Whitney Lake campground into a day use area, chopping another 45 campsites off the list, and further reducing the number of reasons to visit this area.

It's not easy to encourage people to come and enjoy the area, when there's a shortage of places to for them to stay when they get here.

Way Back When...

Regimental ball, road widening, recollections

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE LAKELAND REVIEW AND ELK POINT REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF MAY 4 IN...

1985

Elk Point Royal Canadian Mounted Police Detachment held their second annual Regimental Ball, with St. Paul RCMP Subdivision Commanding Officer, Inspector Gil Donahue and his wife and Sgt. Jim Fell and his wife leading the grand march. Elk Point Chamber of Commerce put their support behind the Safe Grad program for F. G. Miller High School, Heinsburg School and Frog Lake School.

1990

Minister of Transportation Al "Boomer" Adair and MLA John Drobot announced that Highway 41 would be widened from Elk Point to the junction of Highway 28, with work to be completed by the fall of 1990. Elk Point Ukrainian Dance Club packed F. G. Miller High School auditorium for the most spectacular and outstanding Spring Concert in the 11-year history of the club.

1995

On the day before the 50th anniversary of the liberation of Holland, Louis Verhagen gave F. G. Miller's Grade 11 and 12 social studies students a first-hand account of what happened that day, when Canadian soldiers arrived in his village, bringing food to the hungry residents. A steering committee spearheaded by the chamber of commerce took the first steps toward setting up a community health council.

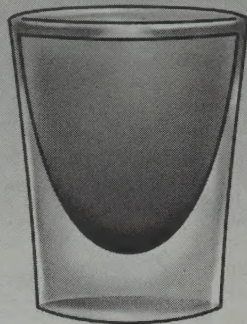

2000

The Elk Point Historical Society, who lobbied long and hard for the preservation of the Fort George and Buckingham House fur trade fort sites, along with the elected officials who helped to make this happen, the Advisory Board that oversaw construction of the interpretive centre, and the Bicentennial Committee that created a year-long celebration for the 200th anniversary of the forts were honoured with the unveiling of a plaque at a tea celebrating their contribution. The chamber of commerce supported the concept of a close-to-town site for the new regional landfill.

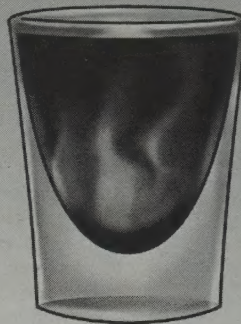

2005

County Council passed a good-news budget, announcing a small surplus and reduction of nearly all its debt for capital expenditures, and reduction of residential mill rate. The chamber of commerce agreed to add a flea market in the Seniors Recreation Centre to the community-wide garage sale lineup.

GUEST COLUMN

Don't forget Mother!

This coming Sunday is Mother's Day. Let us not forget our mothers. They are such important people in our lives. They have nurtured us through out the years and most of all they love us. No one quite sees us like our mothers see us. To our mother, she can find something wrong with us, but don't anyone else mention that to her. We could go on in this description, but the bottom line is that mothers are special people to us.

There is another day some people remember. It is the day when German troops surrendered in 1945. Allied troops advanced through Germany, crossing the Rhine River in March. In Italy, German troops surrendered. Then on May 7, a week after Adolf Hitler's suicide, all remaining German forces surrendered and V-E (Victory in Europe) Day is celebrated on May 8th. The war doesn't end until August 6th when a B-29 bomber dropped a nuclear bomb on Hiroshima, destroying the city. The U.S. calls on Japan to surrender. When there is no response, a second atomic bomb is dropped, on Nagasaki on August 9. The Japanese surrender on August 15 - V-J Day. When the war ends, Europe is in ruins. Millions of refugees are homeless, the economy has collapsed and the majority of Europe's industrial infrastructure has been destroyed. While there is great relief with the allies at the end of the war, it is not without sadness. Along with soldiers killed, many were injured in action. Families are affected on both sides.

It is interesting how these days of remembrance (May 8 and May 9), happened to fall around the same time. Our acknowledgement of war beginning to end and Mother's Day means something when you think about it. For example, how many times have you hear your mother say: "Kids, please stop fighting!" But the war involved adults and fighting does take place. No matter how you look at it, fighting destroys. It involves mental, physical and spiritual, and it has a negative result. No wonder our Mother said: "Kids stop fighting!" Mothers knew it would not have good results.

When one looks at why some people feel fighting has to take place, the question then becomes: "Why?" Basically, what has happened is the person's self-discipline has eroded and societies are left to try to maintain order and civility by compulsion. For example, if we keep our example to one person who has decided to fight, his/her self-discipline to not fight has been eroded and no longer at the moment working. This individual may or may not fight another person, he/she could fight against society by trying to destroy something that belongs to society. This is called vandalism or mischief. To counter this eroded self-discipline of the individual, society is then forced to use compulsion by making laws to counter the individual's behavior. The bottom line is that because of the lack of internal control of individuals, it now breeds external control of governments.

James E. Faust is quoted as saying: "Policemen and laws can never replace customs, traditions and moral values as a means for regulating human behavior. At best, the police and criminal justice system are the last desperate line of defense for a civilized society. Our increased reliance on laws to regulate behavior is a measure of how uncivilized we've become."

What has been forgotten is the teaching of mothers. For example, a few years back, a child would go into a store, steal a candy bar and take it home. The child's mother would take the child back to the store where the child would apologize and reimburse the store manager the cost of the candy bar. Hopefully, the point would be made strongly and the child's life of crime is stopped in the beginning by the mother. To carry this simple example further to the time the child is a teenager or a young adult, and this person now commits vandalism or mischief, wouldn't it be something, if the mother would march the older child back to the incident, and this person would now restore the damage and apologize. Actually, maybe some mothers would do this if they found out their child did the vandalism or mischief. So, no matter how you look at these examples, don't forget your mother!

New president for Riverland

By VICKI BROOKER

Review Staff

Riverland Recreational Trail Society named their fourth president at the group's 11th annual general meeting in Heinsburg on April 26, with Maurice Dargis of Mallalig taking over the post from Sheila Thompson of Elk Point.

Treasurer Marvin Bjornstad and secretary Marjorie Scott retained their positions for the coming year, while the position of vice-president is currently vacant.

"It is with great pleasure that I take over the job," Dargis said. "Sheila's dedication to the betterment of the trail system has been enormous. One of my goals is that the trail system be appreciated and respected. Increasing membership will go a long way to help our shoestring budget, and educating people about the trail is our responsibility to bring forward." Completion of the website within the coming year is another goal he would like to see accomplished.

Dargis acknowledged that in the past, "We have had issues. The pit run gravel was one of the things we had to address. Time will tell what more we can do."

The society's first two presidents, Jerry Bidulock and Marvin Bjornstad, were both on hand to thank Thompson for her years of service with Riverland.

Looking back at the society's "very challenging" 11 years of "disappointments and victories," Bidulock said Thompson's "final days mark the end of the era of the original executive."

"Sheila and I have worked together a long time, since we were both teaching at Kehewin," Bjornstad said. He was pleased to announce that Thompson is still committed to working with the organization to complete development of the website, and complimented her as a "fabulous event organizer" of the Riverland Challenge.

As North East Muni Corr president, County of St. Paul Reeve Robert Bouchard told RRTS members that he finds it "hard to believe how fast the Iron Horse Trail has been developed. There have been a lot of infrastructure improvements and now it's absolutely wonderful." Bouchard presented Thompson with a plaque recognizing her efforts with RRTS.

In her final president's report, Thompson noted that over $600,000 in grant funding had been allotted for the trail, allowing further and much-needed improvements to the trail surface. The County of Smoky Lake has been able to use the trail right-of-way to extend their water line, saving money in the process, with guidelines put in place by North East MuniCorr to ensure the trail surface will not be harmed by the construction.

Efforts toward sustainable funding for this and other trails have been enhanced with the potential introduction of an amount added to the license fee for off-highway vehicles for that purpose, a move which Thompson said is supported by MLA Ray Danyluk.

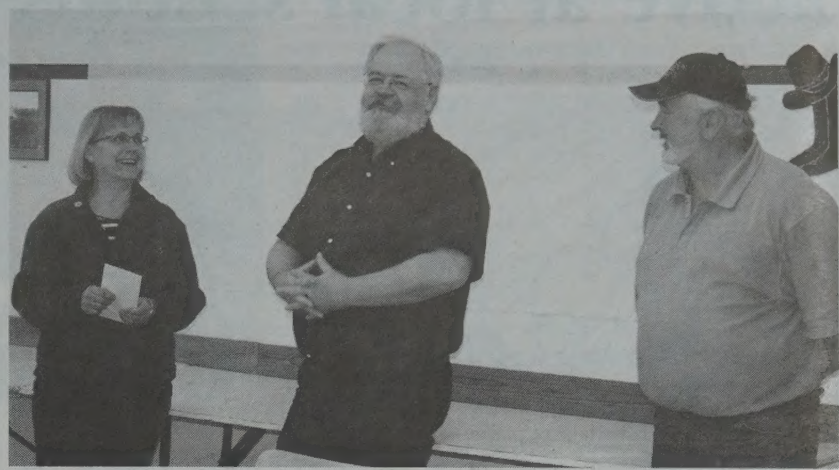

RRTS worked a casino, with proceeds going toward the development of the Iron Horse Trail website and the promotional DVD.

This year's education efforts have included support of an ATV safety training program for youth and the production of trail ethics signs, as well as a special sign explaining Ashmont's buried trestle and how to protect this fragile environment, Thompson said.

When she became president, Thompson said, "I had four projects." The first was to develop a director's handbook that included maps, history and bylaws. When tragedy occurred on the trail last fall and a young boy lost his life, "the communication plan in the handbook told us how to deal with the situation."

Lions Walk For Sight raises $1,315

Elk Point and District Lions held their annual Walk for Sight on Saturday, with 15 two-legged walkers and one four-legged walker taking part. The prize for the most funds raised by an individual went to Nathalie Havener, who raised $439. Elk Point Outreach School won the School Challenge plaque with $371 in pledges, while the Oilfield Challenge trophy remains with Hahn Welding for another year. Laverne Wilson was declared the eldest walker, while little Addison Havener won a Lions piggy bank as the youngest participant. The walk followed a new route this year, starting at the Lions Den at Elk Point Curling Club and ending at the Elk Point Trail Riders cabin, where the Lions were cooking up lunch for both them and the Iron Horse Ultra 100 run participants. The Outreach School was also involved in pre-walk planning, with Adriaana Faithful spearheading the production of posters promoting the event.

Iron Horse Ultra 100

Iron Horse Ultra 100 run participant Brenda Dryer of Red Deer refills her hydration bottles after completing the third 23-km leg of the route and seeing her partner, Chad Parr of Calgary off on the fourth leg. Dryer said she would be running the final "glory leg" of the marathon.

Signs directed Iron Horse Ultra 100 participants off the Moose Hills Road and up Moose Mountain.

Student of the Week

Kelly Sam

Kelly is a very diligent student that is achieving honors in all of her courses. She is very inquisitive and always willing to participate in classroom discussions. Kelly received a perfect mark in one grade 7 Science test and above 95% on another test. Her assignments are well done and she asks intelligent questions that use the knowledge taught in class. Kelly is working well designing a bridge out of spaghetti that will soon be going under a stress test to see how much weight it can hold.

Athlete of the Week

Sarah Harms

Sarah Harms and Lisa Vallee played girls' doubles at the SPAA Badminton Tournament in St. Paul last week. They played three really good games in the round robin, making it to the semi-finals tied with Glen Avon. The girls then lost the tie breaker. Throughout the tournament they displayed excellent sportsmanship skills. Sarah also does track and field and enjoys playing golf. She is also an academic student with an 85% average in her core courses.

He hopes, with council's authority, to make a list of potential investors, and if no interest is shown locally, to contact outside developers. He asked council if they would consider adding to the current incentive for new construction of a two-year tax break. Bezpalko has talked to local business owners, and said they feel future development of the commercial area should be southward, toward the intersection of Highways 41 and 646.

Bezpalko attended the Growing Rural Tourism conference in Camrose and said that city's economic development coordinator spoke about their progress in the past 25 years by encouraging seniors to come to the community.

Elk Point's south entrance sign and a sign planned by E-Can Oilfield Services were also mentioned in Bezpalko's report.

Partial road closure

Council passed first reading of Bylaw 679-10, closing a portion of a roadway for resale.

Seniors' Week

Council agreed to declare June 7 to June 16 as Seniors' Week in Elk Point. They will hold their annual Seniors' Breakfast on Sunday, June 6.

Former fire hall sold

After an in-camera discussion, council passed a motion to accept the Elk Point Christian Community Church's offer of $75,000 and their present land and building in payment for the former fire hall and the three lots on which it is located, with Coun. Dwayne Yaremkevich leaving the meeting prior to this discussion, due to possible conflict of interest.

Hockey drafts and playoffs, batters up for busy weekend

Goalies are a funny breed of cat. They can be very finicky and superstitious, but when they're hot they are impossible to beat and they can win you the big games all by themselves. Take Halak of the Canadiens, he is a perfect example. Look how he single-handedly took out Washington, and now has the Penguins sweating.

It's great to see we still have two Canadian teams competing in the second round, although I still have some issues from my childhood with Montreal, the original six days, Leafs vs. Habs, so cheering for Montreal is not an option for myself. Besides "the Marksman" is one the Penguins black aces, waiting in the wings and could be in the line up any day now.

"Marksman" Mark Letestu is not the only one in the news these days. Today we have another one of our former Elk Point players, Brett Zarowny, son of Kendall and Michelle Zarowny, a family that transferred to Edson a few years ago with Kendall's job. If you remember, Brett was featured in our column a couple of years ago when they toured Europe. For the last two years, Brett has been living and playing hockey in Edmonton for the "AAA" KC Squires and was drafted last week in the Western Hockey League bantam draft, picked by the Prince George Cougars, taken first in the third round, 45 overall, the third goalie chosen in the draft. Fifteen-year old Brett now stands six feet tall and weighs 160 pounds, he played for the Knights of Columbus posting a 10 win, seven loss season, has a 3.33 goals-against average and a .900 save percentage. The director of player personnel for the Cougars, Wade Klippenstein, is quoted saying, "He could be a great goalie in the future and we liked many things about him" Good luck to Brett in the future. Guaranteed you will be reading about him, most likely right here!

And now, the baseball news...

The Lakeland League will be starting this week, here's hoping the weather will cooperate. Such a great turn out for our mosquito-aged baseball boys that we will now have two teams at that age level, a first for many, many years.

Also coming up, a huge test for the Sox bull pen, the season opening tournament this coming weekend, playing at 9 a.m. Saturday against Bonnyville, then again Saturday night at 6 p.m. when they play Athabasca, Sunday morning against Lac La Biche and Sunday afternoon against Vegreville. Parents, bring out all your young potential future Sox players and see what baseball is all about. Chew some spits, have a hot dog and enjoy the game.

doug BASSETT

Review Sports

And now for the K.A. Campbell quote of the week. "Hockey in Montreal is different than in most cities. It's a religion. Hockey is to Montreal what golf is to St. Andrews, Scotland." Last week's answer to: "The Stanley Cup can look like a beautiful wedding cake, its bands of inscribed names cascading the length of the column that supports the bowl. A looser interpretation might be that it more closely resembles the gizmo that a local garage pulls under a car's crankcase for an oil change." - Kevin Paul DuPont, sportswriter. Do you have a sports scoop? Now you can email them to sportshound007@hotmail.com

Former Elk Point resident Brett Zarowny was picked by Prince George Cougars last week in the WHL bantam draft, the third goalie chosen in he draft.

County will hire bylaw officer

BY JANICE HUSER
Review Contributor

After discussing the issue at their April 20 meeting, County of St. Paul council has decided to hire a bylaw officer again this summer season to help educate the public about bylaws within the county.

"I think that we had a very successful year last year," said Ockerman.

CAO Sheila Kitz noted that the RCMP has made recreation areas more of a priority this year, which could help a bylaw officer who is working in the area.

Council then passed a motion to hire a bylaw officer again this season to educate the public

IDP

Council also agreed to hire a consultant to review the Intermunicipal Development Plan since the county has some issues with the implementation of the IDP. A motion to spend up to $1,000 was carried.

Not gone ... but only gone before
To where love lives on ever more
Not lost ... but only lost from sight
As one who walks ahead at night
Not parted ... only just apart
In memory, kept close in heart
Not of the past ... but now to be a part of all eternity.

Love Mum & Dad Scaife and all the family.

SLYWKA, Pearl
(nee Melnyk)

The family of Pearl Slywka would like to extend our sincerest gratitude to each and everyone of you who have given us your support by way of heartfelt condolences, words of kindness, flowers, sympathy cards, memorial donations, food, visiting with us, attending the service, and holding us in your thoughts and prayers during this difficult time in the loss of our beloved mother and "Baba".

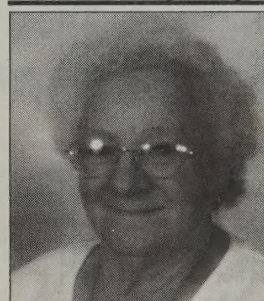

Sincere thanks are extended to the health care providers at the Elk Point Health Centre. We would also like to send a special thank you to Reverend Sam Donaldson for officiating the Service of Remembrance and delightful Celebration of her life, the pianist for the accompanying music and the ladies of the Elk Point Seniors Centre for the beautiful lunch.

Your thoughtfulness and generosity will never be forgotten.

Elk Point 4-H Multi Club members and leaders were joined by parents and a number of other volunteers for their annual clean-up of Moosehills Road. They gathered up bag after bag of debris from ditches last Saturday before the crews, working eastward from Highway 41 and west from Murphy Road, met at Ferguson Flats Hall for a well-deserved lunch break.
